Biography

Peter James and The Torches are a four piece original Indie band based in the North West of Ireland.

The band are Peter James on lead vocals and guitars, John O' Dea on Keys, Peter Hamilton on Drums and Dave Rooney on Bass.

The band was formed by Peter James and John O Dea in November 2015. Peter James (former Katonahs front man) already had an array of written material to draw from and with John, they began to work on a set to play in their local venues around Sligo, Ireland.

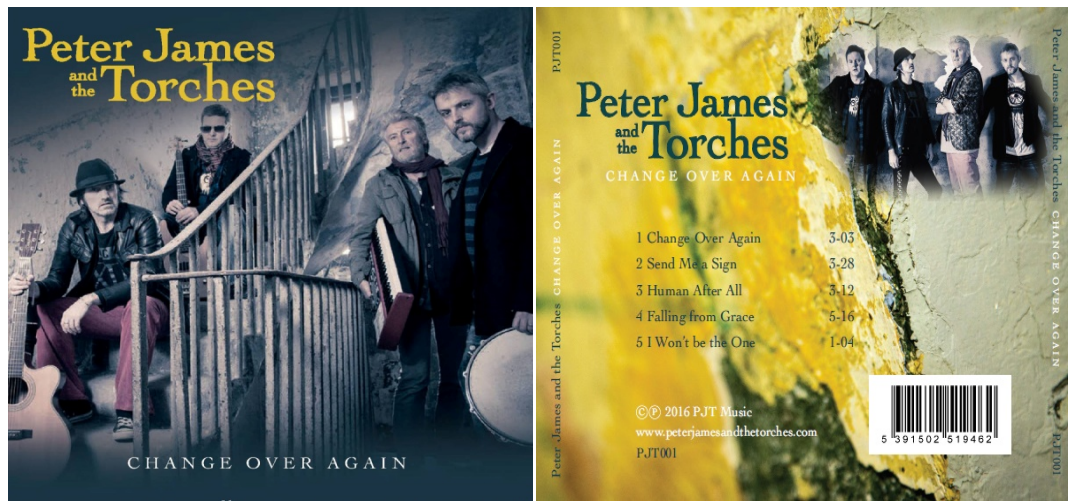

Peter being such an engaging and energetic performer decided that a full band was needed and so they decided to head hunt the rest of the band. This is when Peter Hamilton on Drums and Dave Rooney on Bass joined the band to complete The Torches line up.

The Sound

Song writing and melodic vocals are at the forefront of The Torches. The songs also have up tempo rhythmic energy that gets the crowd moving and singing along because of the ease of which the lyrics are delivered and understood. When Dave and Peter began to play and jam with the lads it was easy to see that something special was happening here. Suddenly the songs were transcended from good songs to songs the band loved to play and the audiences agreed.

The influences within music are easily heard in the sound as the band all have an eclectic outlook to music. There is a strong connection with classic eras from all the great generations of music, fom the Sixties right through to current Indie .
